"SORROW REWARD OF UNGODLY" Warning of Alleged Murderess to Girls at Cross-Roads

I have always wanted to be a newspaper reporter. Therefore, I avail myself of the request of the United Press to give its readers a message on the day my trial starts.—Clara Smith Hamon.

(BY CLARA SMITH HAMON).
ARDMORE, Okla., March 10.—Sorrow is the sole reward of the philosophy of the ungodly.
Those who take the cue of "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow ye may die," for their part in life think they are happy. But it is only the deepest of sorrow in the guise of temporary bliss.

This is usually realized when the tragic crash comes—then it is too late.
This is the lesson I want the readers of the United Press to draw from the strange case of Clara Smith—a clerk in a country store ten years and now with a fervent wish that she was still back in humble Lawton.

Back in the days of my early youth, a man came into my life—but I'll skip over the story—the world knows it only too well.
It is enough for you to know that I am today charged with murder; that I am fighting hard for freedom.
Why? Because I was unable to overcome a man's indomitable will. Because I became steeped in the philosophy of the ungodly.

This care-free and reckless but poisoned philosophy comes disguised in the form of pretty lyrics.
Here is one that I once believed, but the mockery of it all comes home to me now:
You are wise, you take what the Gods have sent.
You ask no questions, but rest content
So I am with you to take your kiss
And perhaps, I value you for this.

For this is wisdom; to love to live
To take what fate or the gods may give
To ask no question, to make no prayer.
To kiss the lips and caress the hair,
Speed Love's ebb as you greet its flow—
To have—to hold—and—in time, let go!
I would that the false prophets could be driven from the temple to save the girls who are now at the cross-roads choosing their path.

SCANDAL OF SOUTHWEST BARED TODAY

Scenes Laid for Airing Details of Sensational Murder of Millionaire Jake Hamon as Clara Smith Goes to Trial for Her Life

Pretty Defendant In Ardmore Case Is Surrounded by Array of Expensive Legal Talent—Courtroom Is Crowded with Spectators

ARDMORE, Okla.—(By United Press)—The scandal of the southwest was uncorked today—Clara Smith Hamon went on trial for murder.
The girl started the fight for her life when her trial for slaying Jake L. Hamon, millionaire and political power, opened in the Carter-co. court house.
Seated in the pews back of the rail were 157 men out of whom the court hopes to secure the jury of 12 who will decide the fate of Clara Hamon.
LEGAL TALENT ARRAY
Clara Hamon was dressed in a simple blue tailored suit and wore a sailor hat and satin pumps. An array of expensive legal talent surrounded the pretty 27-year-old defendant. Walter Scott and "Billy" McLean, two members of the firm of McLean, Scott and McLean, of Fort Worth, Tex., were there.
A. C. Calkley and Jimmie Mathers, of Ardmore, and Joe B. Champion, win brother of Judge Champion, White-haired Prince Freeing, attorney general of Oklahoma City, assisted by H. H. Brown, Ardmore, represented the prosecution. Freeing was appointed by the governor, because Jimmie Mathers, the county prosecuting attorney and now counsel for the defense, had been chosen to represent Clara before he took office January 1.
"Ropes" O'Brien, Chicago lawyer, hired to represent Mrs. Hamon's interests, was there wearing the red tie he always does at murder trials. Whether or not Freeing will allow him to take a leading role in the prosecution, has not been decided.
400 SPECTATORS
Four hundred murder fans were jammed in the courtroom. Among them were many wealthy oil men, friends or bitter enemies of Jake Hamon.
Jake L. Hamon, millionaire and political power, was shot November 21 at the Randol Hotel, Ardmore, Okla. He walked to a hospital where he died five days later.
Clara Smith Hamon, his companion for ten years, with whom he lived at the Randol Hotel, Ardmore, Okla., was charged with his murder but returned to give herself up.
At her trial, she will have the intimate details of her life, whose dizzy career was stopped by a bullet.

HEALTH BOARDS HIT PLAN

38-New Bills Introduced in Legislature

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press)

The good roads committee of the State Automobile Association was to appear before the house reorganization committee today to protest against the placing of the state highway department under a director of public works who would also have charge of all public buildings, public lands, canals, lakes, public printing and other state activities. Organizations interested in the highway department insist that this department is of sufficient importance to be maintained as a separate department.

HEALTH BOARDS OBJECT

Public health and welfare organizations, before the reorganization committee last night, objected to abolition of the board of state charities and the state commission for blind and combining the functions of these commissions and boards in the department of public welfare.
Public health workers will appear before the committee tonight to object to the abolition of the office of state commissioner of health and appointment of a director of health by the governor for a term co-extensive with that of the governor.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Thirty-two new bills were dumped into the hopper of the house last night and six new bills were introduced in the senate. A bill by Representative Ramsey of Lucas-co would require two weeks publication of applications for marriage licenses. A bill by Representative Freeman of Hardin-co would place all coal distributing companies under control of the state utilities commission. Bills offered in both the house and senate make it a misdemeanor to register in a hotel under an assumed name.
A public hearing will be held tonight in the house on the Schriber bill to establish a minimum wage for women.

GERMANS MAY HIT OHIOAN IS SLAIN

Mine Operators, Civil Officials, Workmen Threaten Strike

"RUINED," IS TEUTON CRY

Business Crushed by Entente, Big Exporter Says

DUISBURG — (By Associated Press)

Vague hints that work throughout the Ruhr district of Germany will cease within the next few days as the immediate result of allied occupation of Duisburg, Düsseldorf and Ruhrort, and the seizure of customs, were made by German mine operators, civil officials and workmen here last night.
There seemed to be a little unrest among working men last evening after they had finished a full day's work, however, and thousands gathered on the streets to watch soldiers of the French sentries and to inspect the French machine guns and tanks. They appeared quite cheerful and showed no resentment at the presence of allied troops.
ALLIES OPTIMISTIC
Well informed allied officials declared they did not believe there would be a strike in the Ruhr district, one asserting:
"The people do not intend to strike. Communists are pointing toward Russia as Germany's salvation, but workmen already have repudiated that idea and will repudiate it again. Approximately 15,000 tons of merchandise was handled here today. This was only half of the merchandise tonnage carried daily when the port held the world's record, but business is not at a standstill here and I think it never will stop."
The river seemed fairly busy during the day, craft of various types shuttling to and fro.
"RUINED," GERMANS SAY
Germans declare it impossible to divert the heavy Rhine commerce overland outside of the occupied zone so as to avoid the customs zone, and they expressed themselves as being firmly convinced that those directly affected would abandon competition in the world market because of the high prices, unless they were aided by the Berlin government. They admitted they thought this extension of help was improbable.
"We are ruined, should the allies carry out their program," one of the heaviest exporters said yesterday. "What can the workmen do but strike? What can happen to us but business failure? I will be a ruined man, but what good can that do France and England?"
Allied officials had not been informed as to the procedure planned for administration of new customs zone. They were of the opinion that some commerce from the interior of Germany might be diverted from the Rhine, but they declared the most of it was bound to flow thru this district. They were emphatic in their assertions that German business men would not be ruined by the penalties placed on Germany by the allies.
Two thousand Belgian and French troops are billeted in Duisburg, and French and British gunboats are anchored in the Rhine and Ruhr rivers.

OFFICERS OF MASTER PAINTERS MEET HERE

TO PLAN CONVENTION

Preparations for the annual state convention of the Master Painters and Decorators association, at Cedar Point the week of July 10, will be completed at a meeting of the state officers to be held here Friday evening. Joe Kennedy, of Cincinnati, president and Conrad Krouse, of Cleveland, secretary and treasurer of the Ohio organization will meet with the display committee, headed by A. Schubert, of Cleveland; C. Moody, of Akron; and Andrew Quinn of this city.
Extensive preparations are being made for the entertainment of these officers as well as other well known decorators who are expected to come. Karl Holm is in charge of the arrangements. A banquet at the Elks home at 6 p. m., a meeting at the Holm and Schwehart studio, 502 S. Baxter-st., and a social good time later, are the high points of the program.

SON LONG LOST, MOTHER HOPES

"Big Mike" and "Big Tom" Get War Records Mixed

BOONSBORO, Md. — (By Associated Press)

Hope that springs eternal in human breasts, sent its thrilling message to the mother heart of Mrs. Lettie V. Michael here when the mailman handed her an official photograph of the grave in France where her blue-eyed, giant soldier son lay, sleeping with the heroes of the great war.
Across the card ran the legend, "Alvin A. Michael, killed in action, October 17, 1918," but her son's name was Austin G. Michael. And in that moment there was born to the brave-hearted woman a hope time alone could kill. It would see again the six-foot, curly headed youngster who marched so gallantly out to battle when his country called.
CONFLICTING ACCOUNTS
Perhaps you who read may help her vision to fulfillment. For there may be wandering somewhere in the country a lad from whose mind the impact of a German bullet swept the tides of memory, yet who writes always to a mother he knows not how to address.
Mrs. Michael has carried her search far and here and there has found tales of "Big Mike" as his "buddies" knew him, which filled her with tearful pride. But also she found conflicting accounts in the official record of his death and burial and strange reports at hospitals who visited of a patient long treated and whose description tallied closely with that of her son, but who was known as "Big Tom Hinnegan."
"Big Tom" too has vanished, and until she has found him, Mrs. Michael will not discard the hope that he may be her son, his identity lost in the crash of the bullet that scarred his head.
Boys who fought with "Big Mike" told his mother of the great "biker" in France when man after man toppled over from exhaustion and finally "Big Mike" himself went down in a jangling pile. When they examined him, they found the rifle and equipment of a squad of men strung about his huge frame, carried to ease weaker comrades.
SIGNS OF LIFE
They told her too, of the night when a bullet struck him down, but here there was a difference in the tales that set the mother's heartstrings fluttering anew. Some of them said "Big Mike" had laid two days under a blanket, there in the heat of the battle, given up for dead. But later, signs of life were seen and he went back on the weary road to the hospital.
At one hospital, officials thought they recognized a photograph of "Big Mike" shown by the eager mother as that of "Big Tom" who also had stopped a bullet with his head. It was "Big Tom," they said, who wrote endlessly to his mother but knew not where to send the letters.
And in Washington kindly officials poured over the records to aid the search. They found a queer tangle showing that "Big Mike" apparently had been twice buried by regimental chaplains. Once in the honor graveyard at Convoysville and again at Meuse. There was a difference too, in identification numbers, and the mother came home, weary, but still with high hope to her heart that time would give back her son.

PROPOSAL PUT UP TO HARDING

Negotiations Between Paris and Washington Under Way

MODIFIED FORM SUGGESTED

France's Position is Conciliatory, Report Says

PARIS — (By Associated Press)

It was stated at the foreign office today that negotiations were under way between the French embassy in Washington and the state department in an effort to induce President Harding to favor acceptance of a modified league of nations.
The French position is conciliatory, and is believed to relate to expressions by officials connected with the present Washington administration, made during the peace conference.
HUGHES ASKS JUSSEKAND
WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press)—Administration officials withheld comment today on the statement made at the French foreign office that negotiations were under way between the French embassy here and the state department with regard to the acceptance by the United States of a modified league of nations. The impression was given, however, that the initiative in any such development rested entirely with the French government and that in any event the matter had not reached the state of negotiations.
Secretary Hughes refused to discuss the question. It became known, however, that on last Tuesday he had a half hour talk with a Mr. Jussekand, just before the presentation of the diplomatic corps. Mr. Jussekand is the dean of that corps and at the time it was understood that the visit had to do largely with the reception of the envoys. Whether the subject of the league of nations was broached has not been made known.
HARDING'S PLAN
President Harding has indicated all along that his first steps in foreign affairs would come after the formulation of a definite domestic reconstruction program and that nothing formal would be done until the attitude of foreign governments had been felt out thru unofficial channels.
Mr. Harding already has received considerable information thru his unofficial sources regarding the feeling of European statesmen, and it is expected that he will make a still more exhaustive investigation before he launches his foreign program. Whatever steps France and other nations are expected to fit in with his general plan of procedure.
ADVANCES OF DATA
The forthcoming visit of former Premier Viviani on special mission, and the return of Ambassador Davis from London are regarded as opening two important avenues of information aside from those which the president is preparing on his own initiative. It would not surprise those who have been in close touch with the situation if, in addition, the president sent several representatives abroad within the next few weeks to make inquiries. In the natural course of events the report of such representatives would be expected to lead later to more formal negotiations.
In such conferences as Mr. Harding has held with the secretary of state and congressional leaders, only the more pressing avenues of information are understood to have been considered. Such questions as the Panama-Costa Rica policy and the Colombian treaty have pretty well occupied the attention of the president and his advisers on foreign affairs.

SWITCH ENGINE CRUSHES BOY'S LIMBS; AMPUTATION IS NECESSARY, BELIEVED

Michael Zara, 8, Italian, was run down by a switch engine at the Third-st crossing of the B. & O. R. Thursday at 2 p. m. The right leg was crushed. Amputation below the knee will probably be necessary. Zara, with a number of children, was playing near the railroad tracks. A hasty examination at the Lima locomotive works hospital, to which the boy was taken for first aid, failed to disclose internal injuries. He was removed to the City hospital.

REDS MOWN DOWN GOOD ROADS DAY AT KRONSTADT

Bolsheviks Repulsed in Attempt to Recapture Fortress

HELSINGFORS — (By United Press)—Repulsed after determined attempts to recapture the fortress of Kronstadt, Bolshevik forces have withdrawn, leaving hundreds of bodies lying on the ice, according to advices received here today.
Conflicting reports were received regarding the situation in Petrograd. It was believed to be in the hands of the rebels except for the fortress of Saints Peter and Paul.
The revolt was spreading thruout Russia, marked especially by new uprisings in Moscow.
Soviet artillery was said to have been employed in the streets of the capital, where hundreds of rioting printers and factory hands were mown down.
News of the revolution is being scattered broadcast by the Petrograd rebels, who are making use of the wireless station there to urge demonstrations in other regions.
A Soviet victory was reported from Kalomna, southeast of Moscow, where a rebel force was said to have been suppressed by red troops.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—(By Associated Press)

Police authorities today said they felt there would be no further attempt at mob violence over the criminal assault of eleven-year-old Marge Beaman Monday night by a youthful negro. There were no indications of a disturbance today following the gathering of a crowd of 250 to 300 persons at the county jail at midnight after reports had been circulated that the negro had been captured.
The doctor attending the little girl this morning said that unless complications developed she would recover. She is now at the city hospital, and after the assault the doctor said there were grave doubts of her recovery.

THE CROWD AT THE JAIL

The crowds at the jail dispersed after its own committee of four had entered the jail and verified statements of Sheriff David Jones and Police Chief R. E. O'Brien that no negro had been arrested for the crime. "We want the man worse than you do," said the chief in addressing the crowd. "But we have not got him. We are using every effort to do so."

PENNSY WAGE CUT IS ANNOUNCED

Lima Office Gets Notice That Affects 215,000 Employees

Reduction of wages of $15,000 employees, from the president down, was announced by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Thursday, in a dispatch to W. W. Crooks, Lima agent. Approximately 125 employees will be affected here by the order. While the change is termed a readjustment by the company and no specific reduction is stated, a drastic cut in all wages may be expected, according to Crooks, who made public the announcement.

The company states that readjustment of wages and salaries will be based on the scale of wages paid for similar kinds of work in other industries, taking into consideration relation between wages and cost of living, employment hazards, responsibility, training and skill, character and regularity of employment and inequalities of increases or treatment.

The company holds that changed economic conditions and obligation to the patrons has made a reduction of railroad expenses necessary. There are 73,000 employees of the company now idle. Under a readjustment of wages the company expects to take these men back.

COUNTY ROADS REPORTED IN BAD CONDITION AND TRAFFIC IS IMPEDED

Condition of country roads at this season of the year, coupled with the heavy rains of the past week, makes traffic almost impossible, according to Deputy Sheriff Dotson.

That official made a trip to Beaverdam Thursday and declares that he was not sure he would reach his destination; neither was he so sure about getting back to the city.

Mud roads are not in condition for travel, Dotson says, the automobile plowing deep into the ground.

Pike by-roads are easier of access than the main roads, Dotson declares, because they have not been nearly so badly cut up by passing of heavy loads over them.

On a trip to Spencerville, Thursday afternoon, Dotson says he found the roads in the west in much the same condition as those in the northeastern part of the county.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF IN KRIEG DIVORCE SUIT

Judge F. C. Becker granted a divorce to Maria Krieg from John A. Krieg. The case was heard Saturday, but taken under advisement.

The couple were married in September, 1919, in Lima. He had four children by a previous marriage and she told the court he refused to work after he brought them to their home. She was forced to seek employment in a factory to provide for the family, while he feigned illness and sat around the house.

Mrs. Krieg said she gave up the burden last April, since which time Krieg and his children have been in defiance-co. She was restored to her maiden name of Maria Hentze.

LIMA MEN BOOST NEW HIGHWAY

East and West Route Decided on at Marion Meeting

Planned as an individual route, "The Harding Highway," from Lima to Galton, thru Marion and past President Warren G. Harding's home and birthplace, no effort will be made to induce the Lincoln Highway Association to run its highway along the same route, it was decided at a meeting of good roads representatives from Allen, Hardin, Marion, Morrow and Crawford counties at Marion, Wednesday.

J. Kennard Johnson, manager of the Lima Chamber of Commerce, was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization; Carl J. Guinger of Galton, president and W. H. Holders of Marion, vice-president. Joe Hartline, chairman of the Good Roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce, attended with Johnson.

The Harding Highway is Ohio's main market route No. 2 and was the original route of the Lincoln Highway which was later moved farther north. It is in fairly good repair, but immediate conferences will be had with the state highway commission and the county commissioners of the five counties thru which it passes in an effort to have it put in first class condition. It is thought that this highway will be the most popular tourist route thru Ohio from east to west, owing to its passing thru Harding's home town.

GAS RATE CLASH AGAIN TONIGHT

Council Expected to Clear Away For Final Action

An adjourned executive session of the city council to take up the gas rate question and to decide upon the acceptance or rejection of a resolution submitted by the gas committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will be held Thursday night.

The resolution suggests arbitration of the problem thru an engineering-arbitrator who is to determine a fair rate between the rates submitted by the council and the gas company and is to be paid by the city. Several councilmen object to the city paying the arbitrator and this question is to be thrashed out.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce gas committee will not be present, but will be within call so that they can be brought in if desired. Altho council can take no legal action at the executive session, it is expected that a final decision will be reached.

Council voted to accept the principle of the resolution and was to have made a final decision Monday night, but councilmen stated they had not had time to give the matter due consideration.

Dr. Coleman is the father of the Open Forum movement. His ability and personality as a leader of the Ford L.I.I. Forum in Boston has done more to make that institution known than any other single force, it is asserted.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, common called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and scales and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of writing he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery thru the newspapers. Hunter's Drug Stores, Everywhere, Drug Stores have been appointed agents for Allen's in this vicinity with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they received no benefits.

MURRAY FOR P. M. AT BLUFFTON

County Committee Endorses Mayor of Village

BLUFFTON — (Special) — Mayor M. M. Murray has been endorsed as Bluffton's next postmaster by the county committee on word received from the committee on word received from him the first of the week from the county headquarters of the committee.

Nearly two-thirds of the school pupils of the rural schools in Richland are physically defective, according to report submitted to the county Child Welfare association by Miss Ida E. Nibel, school nurse of the organization. Miss Nibel conducted an examination in the nine rural schools of the township from January 13 to February 25. Of the total number of 272 examined, 100 were found conforming to the standard requirements and 172 and physical defects. Among the defects was found a total of 248 ailments. Decayed teeth lead in the list of defects with 84 cases in total of 71. Thirty-nine cases of impaired vision and eye affection were found. Three anaemic cases and three cases of goitre are also reported.

Because of the failure of the natural ice harvest in this vicinity, local firms have secured two carloads of ice from northern Michigan. The ice was shipped from Cadillac, Michigan.

Mrs. Edgar Hauenstein entertained the principals of the "Pi Fi" cast at her home Wednesday evening, to meet J. Rogers, president of the Rogers Producing Co., of Fostoria. The Rogers Co. staged the production "Pi Fi in the Toy Shop" under the direction of d'Mauffin Lockhart. Members of the High School Alumni took the leading parts and the proceeds will be used to buy stage scenery for the High School stage.

Mrs. Peter Thutt, an aged resident of this community, died Wednesday at the Bluffton hospital, from a complication of diseases.

Chris Schnegg sustained a broken arm while assisting in dehorning cattle at his farm three miles east of town.

Crippled Children Made Happy and Well by Aid of Good Fellowship Men

Radiant Little Faces, Free from Pain Seen at City Hospital

Work of Local Organizations for Humanity is an Inspiration.

Out at the City hospital there are three little sunbeams that shine so brightly a gloom cloud can not enter. They are cripples, physically, but not in mind. They are optimistic and happiness personified, an inspiration to everyone happy or sad. Just one glance into their radiant little faces drives all the pessimism out of one's being. Ordinarily such cases incite pity but their horizon of happiness seems to envelop everyone completely and hides their physical infirmities, leaving only that bright smile of youthful hope and happiness.

In their faces one can see that they have found something that we more lucky physically perhaps, are always looking for in vain—Happiness. The bird sing all day for these little ones.

A nurse watches over the youngsters at all times. Flowers and ice-cream come from unknown sources. The children being cared for and made well thru the aid of the Goodfellowship committee of the Lima Rotary Club. Co-operating with the Red Cross, City hospital and local physicians.

"Oh, Harold!" pipes a wee voice down the hall and Harold speeds away. We follow the voice and enter a room to meet a sight that ordinarily would fill one with horror and pity, but a face so filled with happiness radiates upon one in such a manner that one can only smile back and wonder, unable to believe one's eyes.

Here lies little Glen, three years old. His bed is on an incline of about 30 degrees and he lays on his back, supported by a cloth that goes under his chin and around a railing at the head of the bed. His weight rests on his chin. This would be most uncomfortable for most of us, but Glen smiles, laughs, winks at you and swings a small toy watch about on a chain. Never does he frown.

HUNCHBACK BEING CURED. When he went to the hospital he was a hunchback, his face distorted with pain. He objected to his "harness." But half an hour after he had been in his new position he said: "Was afraid, thought it would hurt, but it feels good" and he smiling for the first time probably in his life. His back is becoming straight. He had never walked, being afflicted with infantile paralysis and a club foot. When he came to the hospital he lived on black bread, cheese and coffee and abhorred milk, meat and eggs, but his diet has been changed.

stormed when he found it out and went to the hospital to demand her return, saying her foot could never be made straight. But when she showed it to him, almost straight, he was dumfounded and overjoyed.

Pete and Harold are now ready to go home, but are being kept at the hospital so they may have the right diet. Soon they and others will go to the country to convalesce, as guests of the Goodfellowship committee of the Rotary club.

There are several more who have received treatment and who have left the hospital or have not had to go there. Fifteen-year-old Helen had her club foot made straight and is back in school. Frances was said to have infantile paralysis, but an expert examination showed a dislocated hip and she is now waiting for braces that will mend it.

This work has been accomplished thru the cooperation of the Goodfellowship committee with the Red Cross, City hospital and the local doctors. It has not been the plan of the Goodfellowship committee to take cases away from doctors, but to assist them.

THE PLAN PURSUED. It's plan is first to afford expert examination to anyone brought to them, either by doctors or relatives. A clinic of eminent surgeons, bracers, makers and local surgeons and doctors is consulted. Patients or parents of patients are free to follow or let go unheeded the advice given. Those who can pay, do so; those who cannot, need not. Doctors are to lose nothing financially by the system and cases are not to be taken from them. The committee suggests that those who have family physicians should come to them for the physicians.

The latter part of last year, thru the co-operation of the Red Cross and doctor, a clinic from Chicago was brought to Lima and 40 children of Lima and Allen-co were given examination and treatment. Twenty more cases were located in the schools. In all 65 cases have been brought to the attention of the committee. A brace maker will be brought here soon and any parent or doctor in Allen-co is free to bring a patient to the clinic for examination. The Good Fellowship committee of the Rotary Club is composed of D. J. Cable, chairman; George Lela, J. B. Poling, James Mackenzie, Sam Weinfield, Peter Hulsken, L. S. Galvin, Dr. J. R. Tillson and Prof. John Collins.

Take a Vote on Pies

Take a vote on pies in your home and you'll make mostly raisin pies. For this is the pie that men think most delicious.

Raisins furnish 1560 units of energizing nutriment per pound. They are 75 per cent pure fruit-sugar in practically predigested form.

So the nutriment of raisin pie is almost immediately assimilated.

Raisins are rich in iron also, which brings the bloom of youth to women's and children's cheeks. When you eat raisins you eat a "beauty food" as well as one that's healthful.

Try raisin pie tonight. You'll never have to ask men what pie they like thereafter. Every first-class baker has this pie, or if you wish to make it yourself, we publish here the tested recipe for the chief of pies.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use these raisins for home cooking, for they are the finest raisins grown. Made from choicest California table grapes, tender, meaty, juicy and thin-skinned. Packed in California in a sun-lighted, glass-walled plant. Clean, sweet, wholesome, American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers sell them. Insist upon the Sun-Maid brand. Send for free book, "Sun-Maid Recipes," describing many ways to serve.

Agony of Asthma

Thousands of people suffer from Bronchitis or Bronchial Asthma who, having tried advertised remedies, inhalers, Patent smoke-bulbs, doctors, changes in climate, etc., without permanent benefit believe nothing can ever make them well.

Extensive experiments finally enabled a Worcester, Mass. physician to find a simple, harmless treatment that gave almost immediate relief in even the most stubborn advanced cases and great numbers of former Asthmatics have now used his treatment with wonderful success.

The doctor's prescription is called Oxidase and can be obtained from J. P. Vortkamp, Central Drug Co., Hunter's Drug Stores and leading druggists everywhere, who sell it on a guarantee of money back on the first package if in any case it fails to give prompt relief.

Many users who for years have been obliged to sit up in bed gasping for breath and unable to sleep report that they now take a dose of Oxidase when going to bed and then can lie down and breathe easily and naturally and get a good night's restful sleep.

Oxidase is a safe treatment, easy and pleasant to take and contains no harmful, habit forming drugs—Adv.

KERENSKY AGAIN
AS has been the case with Russia for several years, it is still quite likely that the news brought out of that country is not exactly representative of the true situation, but it is bad enough if only partially true.

The latest word is that the Soviet government is disintegrating and that either a democracy or a monarchy will result. Anti-Red uprisings are spreading, the Soviet is hard pressed and most anything may be expected. There is report that a peasant is to be crowned czar. Who it is has not been revealed.

Alexander Kerensky, the "man of the hour" in Russia when the Czar's government was overthrown, is reported returning to Russia from France, to direct the movement to break down the Soviet. If Kerensky doesn't make a better success of his latest move than he did of his first, when nearly all Russia had faith in and trusted him, he'll fail again. The rise of Kerensky was meteoric. His fall was rapid and tragic. Lacking in the elements of firmness when such a trait was sorely needed, the situation "got away from him" and what promised to result in order out of chaos, was instead chaos multiplied.

As the people lost faith in the man who stood out foremost, the fate of Russia was sealed. Kerensky was a socialist. He endeavored to have socialistic ideas and principles adopted, but a nation in the throes of a revolution would have none of an idealism that possessed not the element of firmness at least when force was needed to save the people from themselves.

Russia was a fertile field for the terrors of Bolshevism and Lenin and Trotsky succeeded, with a minority force, in fastening their ruinous plan on all the people, driving Kerensky and his followers out of the land, or killing all who failed to get out. Kerensky believes that within six months Russia will be under a republican form of government, patterned after that of the United States. The remainder of the civilized world will wait patiently and hope for the realization of that statement.

LABOR AND RAILWAY RELIEF
REPRESENTATIVES of labor are now threatening to use their influence against the passage of the Winslow bill authorizing payment by the government of a portion of the sums which it owes the railways, the Boston Transcript says. It is alleged by spokesmen for their employees that the roads, in "seeking the abrogation of the national agreements," are in reality trying to undermine the principle of collective bargaining. Therefore, it is declared, the government shall not, at this time, pay its debts to the railways.

This was the attitude adopted by Mr. Frank P. Walsh, speaking in behalf of the unions at the hearing before the wage labor board in Chicago. He said that congress should not even consider payments to the railways "so long as the carriers refuse to come before this board with clean hands and demonstrate to the public that they will honestly comply with the law."

Here is an attempt on behalf of the employees to use an entirely meritorious measure relating to railway finance as a club in a controversy over working conditions. It is a course that would still be indefensible even if it were to be admitted that the employees had the right of the dispute. The fact that they are attempting to browbeat the railway managers into yielding will go far to strengthen the suspicion that they are none too confident of their ability to win their case on the real issue involved.

The railway unions as represented at Chicago would hold up payment because of their particular grievances, real or fancied, against the roads. But this is not all. Senator La Follette wants to deprive the roads of their money until they can show that they are not paying too high prices for supplies and equipment, and that their officials are not receiving exorbitant salaries. Next week somebody is likely to appear with a new ground of complaint or suspicion, and to declare that it constitutes a reason why the government should not pay its debts.

The course of common sense is for the government to pay what it owes, and to pay as much of it now as has already been determined to be due. That is the only sound policy. It is an honest policy. Efforts by the employees to defeat it will not help them in public esteem.

HARDING AND THE PHILIPPINES
IT'S a cinch that the people of the Philippine Islands will be on their good behavior when Major General Leonard Wood arrives in Manila and there's a very good reason therefor.

Just when the Filipinos will be given the right of self-government is going to depend a whole lot on what the former Presidential candidate tells the man who worsted him in the Chicago convention, after Wood returns from the Philippines.

For the purpose of securing a report on the exact situation in the far away islands President Harding has commissioned General Wood to make a visit there, stay as long as is necessary and assemble all the data necessary for the President to know whether it is best to hearken to the prayer for Filipino liberation, or delay such action until the islanders further prove up.

It is an important mission the President has delegated to Wood. And he ought to be able to fulfill it acceptably.

IS IT PROGRESS OR REFORM?
MINISTERS of Columbus have gone on record, by resolutions adopted, as being opposed to the staging of fox drives in this state. They point out that such exciting events, with a wild animal as the quarry sought, tends to appeal to the lust to kill and the spirit of cruelty and barbarism.

While it is agreed that the fox is a predatory animal and that its very existence depends upon its skill and ability applied in affording itself food in the form of smaller and weaker animals, birds and farm fowl, the good ministers feel certain that fox drives only grease the skids for humanity toward perdition.

They recommend, if the fox is a destructive animal, that it be despatched in a manner less productive of the danger of encouraging blood thirst in the human family. If this sort of thing continues, there'll likely be created a board to pass on and approve fly swatters of a kind and character that will insure no suffering on the part of the fly when swatted, all others being barred.

MARCEL'S DRAMATURGY.
In drama, things just simply happen at the right time and the audience accepts them without comment. Why does an organ grinder start playing his organ right under the window of the "flat" where some of the characters happen to be living at the time? It rains while the hero and heroine are caught in the log cabin and explain to the audience how they happen to be here. It also stops raining and the sun begins to shine just when it ought to. Snow seems to act in the same way. The Royal Guards are giving a ball and there is a crowd and confusion; but the principal characters always seem to be able—with the aid of the dialogue—to distinctly plant in the audience's mind what is going on. The music seems to stop just at the right time. Shots are fired when they ought to be and the right person is killed. Even clocks strike the hour at the right time.

This is not charlatanism or quackery, it is just dramaturgy.—Marcel Steinbrugg.

According to the fashion journal for men, that ancient and honorable institution, the coattail, is about to be gathered to its fathers. Together with the plug hat, it is said, coattails will, after this winter season, no longer grace the Apollo Belvidere who strut majestically hither and yon in the corridors of high society.

It is held that coattails represent a clear waste of material, which is very scarce and very valuable. Every time a man orders a coat with a long tail on it he raises the price of clothing for the next bird.

But the new custom will bring about a bit of public information. We will know who are carrying the flasks.

I see Yale has elected a new president named Angell, but wait until he has handled those boys a while.

CONSOLATION
We shall be comforted in time,
Tho now the heavy shades are drawn
And solemnly the church bells chime,
From darkness we shall come to dawn.
Death is the bitterest blow that falls,
Yet all who live are born to die,
Somewhere the solemn courier calls
With every hour that passes by.
Yet are we brave and are we true,
And would we try to please our dead.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINTS

NOCTURNE IN A FLAT
or Why, Oh, Why Do You Snore?
Will you kindly tell a perfect lady, asks one, how to cure herself of snoring, common or garden variety, as well as grand opera selections? I've tried high pillows, low pillows, will power and won't power, and I guess about everything else but standing in the corner all night. My family threatens to relegate me to the tall timbers if I don't cease. Of course I am taking their word for my offenses, never having heard myself perform. (M. C.)
Snoring is that peculiarly charming note produced by the flapping of the soft palate in the wind. Like the song of a siren it will drive some folks to deeds of frenzy.
Most snorers get in their best work while breathing in part thru the mouth and in part thru the nose, the velum palati vibrating tunelessly between the two air currents; but experts can snore very effectively with the mouth closed.
To give a perfectly gentlemanly reply to the lady's query, the most common cause of snoring is just plain laziness. Some folks are too lazy to breathe properly when asleep. They choose the easier way, with the mouth open, because for one reason and another it is a little difficult to breathe thru the nose.
When we are asleep we are relaxed, just as we grow sleepy under the soothing relaxing influence of a nice warm fire and a comfortable chair and a pouchful of good food. And this relaxation particularly affects the erectile spongy bodies (turbinate bodies) of the nose chambers; they become engorged with blood and swell enough to impede free passage of air thru the nose.
People who snore should, as a rule, eat less; they are generally overweight, which proves beyond peradventure that they habitually eat too much. They should endeavor to fight that lazy streak, which certainly injures health, by indulging in daily active general exercise of one kind or another, for the sake of better circulation, tone, among the other several blessings conferred by attention to physical exercise. They should visit a doctor who examines and treats nose and throat troubles, and, if he finds an undue turbinate thickening or other obstructive conditions in the nose, undergo a course of treatment to better the conditions there. As a rule a few direct applications of the appropriate medicinal agents by the physician will bring about the necessary shrinkage or improvement of tone in the mucous membrane lining the nose chambers, and do away with the nocturne.

Snoring is sinful, inasmuch as it is a defiant declaration to all and sundry that there is something wrong with your health or your life, yet you are not doing anything about it. Perhaps some vague realization of that fact by the audience accounts for the commendable desire to throw things.

Burlington, Vt.—"I suffered with female trouble, and had a number o doctors who said that I would never be any better until I had an operation. I was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor and could not do a thing. My sister-in-law induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it certainly has helped me wonderfully. I keep house and do my work and have a small child. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to a number of my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. H. R. SHARON Apple Tree Point Farm, Burlington, Vt.
In hospitals are many women who are there for surgical operations, and then is nothing a woman dreads more than the thought of an operation, and then long weary months of recovery and restoration to strength if it is successful.
It is very true that female troubles may through neglect reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. In fact, many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

RAY PICTURES ALWAYS
"HIS BEST EFFORT"

"The Old Swimmin' Hole" is No
Exception to the General Rule, Reviewer Holds

His Skinner in "At the Villa Rose" — "Irene," Musical Comedy, is Coming

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
VERY picture of Charlie Ray's reviewed by this writer carries the sentence: "Certainly this picture is Mr. Ray's best effort to far." And after saying about the picture "I can truthfully say swimmin' hole" again. For "The old swimmin' hole," as an interesting, unusual and thoroughly entertaining cinema attraction, is a world-leader.

It's a regular back-to-nature picture with no plot to speak of. There are no villains to keep track of, no heros to pity and no suspense and no "great moments" of suspense and dramatic value. No, not a thing like that. It's merely the wholesome story of boys and girls, with Charles Ray in the part of Ezra,
THE BOY.

Of course you read and love
James Whitcomb Riley. This picture is an adaptation of one of his most charming poems and with most of the scenes in the poem's character, the picture would have been done. With Charlie Ray—well, watch him work.

There being no plot, there is no story, except that Ezra is a regular boy, who loves the girl with the pretty curls who sits across the aisle from him in school. And Skinny loves the curls, too, and seems to have more of a chance at winning her.

You'll enjoy immensely all the old
"rags" of school-days, which Ezra and his pals pull off; the stolen pleasures in the old swimmin' hole in the mill; the secret cave meetings of the Pirate Six, at which the chief ceremony is smoking corn-silk.

One of the funniest things in the picture is when Ezra, intending to go to the Settlers' picnic, at which he hopes to vamp the kittenish
"Gals" gets all dolled up in his best and then misses the hay-wagon, after running after it for blocks. And when he sits down and takes off his shoes and stockings and gleefully digs his toes in the dust, you can almost hear him sigh, "Oh-h-h-h, at it a grand and glorious feeling."

Of course the last reel shows that Ezra is convinced that as far as vamping is concerned, he may as well give up and he had already written in his diary that he was "off wimping for life," when along comes Laurie, who had always loved him, so we leave them happily eating together. That's all.

The pastoral scenes are beautiful and adhere closely to Riley's description. The supporting cast is composed of Laura La Plante and others less well known; there's a darling little baby in the picture for a few brief scenes. Photographically, the picture is splendid, and as a whole "The Old Swimmin' Hole" is a picture that you cannot afford to miss.

tective has, according to ad-soul of Otis Skinner, and it is as a calm and deducting catcher of clues that he comes to the Faurot Opera House, Friday, March 11, in

"At the Villa Rose." Quite a change

mediums and the blooming emotions study. In his element, he is considered unbeatable, if rivaled at all, and there will be a psychological interest in seeing him adopt the steady ways of the action police. You must not, however, expect to see him all at once become an eerily dry and tense as William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes," nor must you look for so thunderous silence as that with which Mr. Gillette used to close that act when by the judicious use of an office boy he thwarts the murderous Professor Moriarty, and after brain-splitting excitement brings the cartain down with a drawing. "Willie, you're a good boy." That was Gillette's own way of playing a detective. Mr. Skinner's turnover to the south will be done in his own way, full of his own individuality and radiation, qualities that in him are among the most impressive on the stage today.

Faurot—"Irene"
"IRENE," the smart musical comedy which started the amusement world by its phenomenal success both here and abroad, and which is now in the second year of triumphant success at the Vanderbilt theatre in New York, will be the attraction next Saturday at the Faurot.

"Irene" is an up-to-date love story by James Montgomery, with lyrics and music by Joseph McCarthy and Harry Tierney respectively. Twenty musical gems are rendered and several big dancing numbers are scattered thru the piece. The cast to be seen here includes Katherine Mul-queen, who has been intrusted with title role, Amelia Summerville, Annie Hart, Nina Penn, Beatrice O'Connor, Grace LaSalle, Olive Tenney, Harriet Young, Booth Howard, Eugene MacGregor, Garrett Carroll, Austin
Clarke, George Elsting, James Curran and a well trained chorus of boys and girls.

The same lavishness which characterized the mounting of the play at its premier in New York has been followed in this instance, the Vanderbilt Producing company, owners and producers of the play, offering it here on the same magnificent scale.

Remember the picture shows of twelve years ago? Do you recall when the "Movies" first became popular? In the crowded little hole in the wall? With its low ceiling and gaudy walls? Weren't the chairs uncomfortable and frequently there was a post to obstruct the view, remember?

Then, too, there was a gum-chewing, alleged pianist, whose favorite stunt was to "interpret" the pictures by playing "Hearts and Flowers" or
"The Flower Song" when the heroine was about to be clasped in the hero's arms and when the villain was getting in his dirty work, she played an Indian dance.

And, the "be-e-a-utifully colored" slides of roses and mushy lovers that illustrated the songs to which the audience lent its vocal powers when the chorus arrived. As a rule there was just one projecting machine and a single reel drama was cranked out by hand. Very often the fillum busted—and then the slide, "One moment please."

Al, but weren't the movies Gr-r-and? Lucky Stars drew fifty a week, and the show cost a jinker.

Here's a chance for comparison:
at the Sigma next week Edwin Edwards will stage an old time "Movie" show—just as it was twelve years ago with the exception of no posts to block the vision. The show will be a little dummer titled "Shadows of Doubt," with Mary Pickford and Owen Moore.

MISS CHRISTEN'S CHAT AND SOCIETY

DON'T TELL MOTHER EVERYTHING

BY SUSIE SMART

I AM a young woman and have been married for three years. Whenever my husband and I would have an argument or disagreement, I would always go to my mother and tell her about them. In fact, I told my mother all my family secrets and everything. Now I realize that I shouldn't have done it and that it was really no one else's business but our own. Now my husband and I are separated, all due to this. I love him and want to go back to him. What would you advise me to do?

LOVELY WIFE

YOUR little affair has been a hard, cruel lesson for both you and your husband, but to look at it from an optimistic standpoint, it has been a splendid lesson for you and one from which you can profit greatly in the future.

Go to your husband and tell him frankly that you realize your mistake and that you wish to apologize. Tell him that you now see that your personal affairs should not be carried to others and that your separation has made you very unhappy. Your husband is probably anxiously waiting for you to see your mistake and is hopefully waiting for a reconciliation.

In the future do not carry your troubles to your mother. Of course, it is only natural that every girl and every young married woman should make a confidant of her mother and tell her all her little secrets, plans, et cetera, but do not tell her about every little argument your husband and you have or about every cross word which was nothing more than just a slip and wasn't meant to be half so cross.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) I am a girl of 14. Would it be all right for me to have a paper hat and what color would be nice? (2) Are the one strap military heels going to be in style for a girl of my age? (3) I have a girl friend who talks about nothing but boys. I have lots of boy friends and seem to be thought of more than the ones that are always talking about them. Do you think I am right? (4) Are the all-over sweaters with skirts going to be worn this summer and do you think they are stylish?

SUSIE SMART

(1) Yes, it would be perfectly all right for you to make a paper hat if you have such a desire. Use any color or which is becoming to you. Personally I think the darker colors make the prettier hats. (2) Yes. (3) Yes, you are right. You are certainly a very sensible little girl. (4) Yes, they will be worn and they are certainly very pretty and girlish.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) Please tell me a place where I may obtain sea salt? (2) I think my legs are too large. What could I do to reduce them? (3) How could you fix long hair for a young girl? (4) What is the right height and weight for a girl of 13? (5) Please suggest a small menu for a Friday party.

(1) Sea salt may be obtained at a drug store. (2) Try various exercises. Sometimes exercise tends to increase the size. I trust it won't be true in your case. I wouldn't know what else to suggest. (3) I know what else to suggest. (4) I know what else to suggest. (5) I know what else to suggest.

don't know exactly what your conception of young is. If you have reference to a girl who is too young to wear her hair up, about the prettiest way for her to fix it is pulled loosely over the ears and fastened at the back with a barrette. (4) The average height for a girl of 13 is about four feet 10 inches. The average weight for a girl of 13 is about 85 pounds. (5) Gelatin and whipped cream, cakes, nuts and hot chocolate are always very appetizing.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) My skin has a yellow color sometimes. Is there anything I can do to prevent this? (2) What will clear the complexion of young girls?

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing

If you want to keep your good condition, be careful to wash it with.

Most scabs and prepared dries contain too much alkali, and is very harmful. Cocoon oil shampoo (which is entirely greaseless) is better than anything else for use for shampooing, as this is sibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One teaspoonful of Mulisid will cleanse the scalp and soothe the hair. The latter rinses off, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and oil. The hair dries quickly, evenly, and it leaves it silky, bright, lustrous and easy to manage.

You can get Mulisid coconut shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few drops are enough to last everyone for months. Be sure your druggist gets Mulisid.—Adv.

KIDNEY SUFFERERS Benefitted Beyond Belief

Cincinnati, O., July 25, 1920. After being relieved of kidney trouble at several years standing by Dr. Carey's Marshmallow prescription No. 777 an exceedingly grateful and loud in praise—have recommended to it several fellow-workers who were also benefited beyond their belief by its use. It is my candid opinion that there is no better remedy than Dr. Carey's Marshmallow. August 1st I received your letter asking permission to reproduce my letter to you (see above). If it will in any way help people to realize the true merits of Dr. Carey's Marshmallow prescription you are at liberty to do so. I know that it effected me, effected pain for several years and am eternally grateful and feel confident that if people who have kidney trouble will use it long enough to give it a fair test there will be more grateful ones added to the list.—John E. Panchas, 103 West Court Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

NOTE: Dr. Daniel G. Carey, the well known kidney specialist of Elkhart, N. Y., who died recently, declared that his great prescription, No. 777 Marshmallow, had helped thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Under the name, Dr. Carey's Marshmallow Prescription No. 777, no other medicine can take its place.—Hunters' Drug Stores—Adv.

THE PARADISE MYSTERY

By J. A. STUMMER

"Are, and from what I read, they never followed his movements that morning," observed Glasdale. "Over business altogether! Isn't there some reward offered, doctor?"

"I heard of some pleasors or something, but I've never seen them, of course, I've only been here since yesterday morning."

Bryce silently drew some papers from his pocket. From them he extracted the two handbills which Glasdale had given him and handed them over.

"Well, I must go," he said. "I shall not doubt see you again in Wrychester, over this affair. For the present, all this is between ourselves, of course?"

"Of course, doctor!" answered Glasdale. "Quite so!"

Bryce went off and got his bicycle and rode away in the direction of Wrychester. Had he been seen that garden he would have seen Glasdale, after the house and handbills, ask the landlady at the bar to get him a trap and a good horse in it as soon as possible; he, too, would want to go to Wrychester and at once.

But Bryce was riding down the road, muttering certain words to himself over and over again.

The great towers of Wrychester Cathedral had come within Bryce's view before he had made up his mind as to the next step in his last stage of his campaign. He had ridden away from the Saxonsteade Arms feeling that he had got to do something at once, but he was not quite clear in his mind as to what that something exactly was. But now, as he topped a rise in the road, and saw Wrychester lying in its hollow beneath him, the summer sun shining on its red roofs and gray walls, he suddenly came to a decision, and instead of riding straight ahead into the old city he turned off at a by-road, made a line across the northern outskirts, and headed for the golf links. He was almost certain to find Mary Bewery there at that hour, and he wanted to see her at once. The time for his great stroke had come.

But Mary Bewery was not there—had not been there that morning, said the caddy master. There were only a few players out. In one of them, coming toward the clubhouse, Bryce recognized Sackville Bonham, and at sight of Sackville, Bryce had an inspiration. Mary Bewery would come up to the links now before afternoon, he Bryce would lunch there and then go toward Wrychester to meet her by the path across the fields on which he had waylaid her after his visit to Leicestershire, and meanwhile he would inveigle Sackville Bonham into conversation.

Sackville told readily into Bryce's trap. He was the sort of youth who loves to talk, especially in a blustering and mysterious fashion. And when Bryce, after treating him to an appetizer in the bar of the clubhouse, had suggested that they should lunch together and get him into a quiet corner of the dining room, he launched forth at once on the pertinent matter of the day.

"Heard all about this discovery of those missing Saxonsteade diamonds?" he asked as he and Bryce picked up their knives and forks. "Queer business that, isn't it? Of course, it's got to do with those murders?"

"Think so?" asked Bryce. "Can anybody think anything else?" said Sackville in his best dogmatic manner. "Why, the thing's plain. From what's been let out—not much, certainly, but enough—it's quite evident."

"What's your theory?" inquired Bryce. "My stepfather—knowing old bird he is, too!—sums the whole thing up to a nicely," answered Sackville. "That old chap, Braden, you know is in possession of that secret. He comes to Wrychester about it. But somebody else knows. That somebody gets rid of Braden. Why? So that the secret'll be known then only to one—the murderer! See! And why? Why?"

"Well, why?" repeated Bryce. "Don't see, so far."

"You must be dense, then," said Sackville with the lofty superiority of youth. "Because of the reward, of course!"

"Don't you know that there's been a standing offer—never withdrawn!—of five thousand pounds for news of those jewels?"

"No, I didn't," answered Bryce. "Fact, sir—pure fact," continued Sackville. "Now, five thousand, divided in two, is two thousand five hundred each. But five thousand, undivided, is—what?"

"Five thousand—apparently," said Bryce. "Just so! And," remarked Sackville, knowingly, "a man'll do a lot for five thousand."

"Or—according to your argument for half of it," said Bryce. "What you—or your stepfather's—aiming at comes to this, that suspicion rests on Braden's share in the secret. That it?"

"And why not?" asked Sackville. "Look at what we know—from the account in the paper this morning. This other chap, Glasdale, waits a bit until the first excitement about Braden is over, then he comes forward and tells the duke where the duchess's diamonds are planted. Why? So that he can get the five thousand pound reward! Plain as a pikestaff! Only, the police are such fools!"

"And what about Collishaw?" asked Bryce, willing to absorb all his companion's ideas.

"Part of the game," declared Sackville. "Same man that got rid of Braden got rid of that chap! Probably Collishaw knew a bit and had to be silenced. But whether that Glasdale did it all of his own bat or whether he's somebody in with him, that's where the gull'll be fastened in the end, my stepfather says. And—it'll be so. Stands to reason!"

"Anybody come forward about that reward your stepfather offered?" asked Bryce.

"I'm not permitted to say," answered Sackville. "But," he added, leaning closer to his companion across the table, "I can tell you this—there's wheels within wheels!"

"You understand! And then he'll be coming out. Got to! We can't—as a family—let Ransford lie under that cloud, don't you know. We must clear him. That's precisely why Mr. Polliot offered his reward. Ransford, of course, you know. Bryce, is very much to blame—he ought to have done more himself. And, of course, as my mother and my stepfather say, if Ransford won't do things for himself, well, we must do 'em for him! We couldn't think of anything else."

"Very good of you all, I'm sure," assented Bryce. "Very thoughtful and kindly."

"Oh, well!" said Sackville, who was incapable of perceiving a sneer or of knowing when older men were laughing at him. "It's one of those things that one's got to do—under the circumstances. Of course, Miss

"You must be dense, then," said Sackville with the lofty superiority of youth. "Because of the reward, of course!"

"Don't you know that there's been a standing offer—never withdrawn!—of five thousand pounds for news of those jewels?"

"No, I didn't," answered Bryce. "Fact, sir—pure fact," continued Sackville. "Now, five thousand, divided in two, is two thousand five hundred each. But five thousand, undivided, is—what?"

"Five thousand—apparently," said Bryce. "Just so! And," remarked Sackville, knowingly, "a man'll do a lot for five thousand."

"And why not?" asked Sackville. "Look at what we know—from the account in the paper this morning. This other chap, Glasdale, waits a bit until the first excitement about Braden is over, then he comes forward and tells the duke where the duchess's diamonds are planted. Why? So that he can get the five thousand pound reward! Plain as a pikestaff! Only, the police are such fools!"

"And what about Collishaw?" asked Bryce, willing to absorb all his companion's ideas.

"Part of the game," declared Sackville. "Same man that got rid of Braden got rid of that chap! Probably Collishaw knew a bit and had to be silenced. But whether that Glasdale did it all of his own bat or whether he's somebody in with him, that's where the gull'll be fastened in the end, my stepfather says. And—it'll be so. Stands to reason!"

"Anybody come forward about that reward your stepfather offered?" asked Bryce.

"I'm not permitted to say," answered Sackville. "But," he added, leaning closer to his companion across the table, "I can tell you this—there's wheels within wheels!"

"You understand! And then he'll be coming out. Got to! We can't—as a family—let Ransford lie under that cloud, don't you know. We must clear him. That's precisely why Mr. Polliot offered his reward. Ransford, of course, you know. Bryce, is very much to blame—he ought to have done more himself. And, of course, as my mother and my stepfather say, if Ransford won't do things for himself, well, we must do 'em for him! We couldn't think of anything else."

"Very good of you all, I'm sure," assented Bryce. "Very thoughtful and kindly."

"Oh, well!" said Sackville, who was incapable of perceiving a sneer or of knowing when older men were laughing at him. "It's one of those things that one's got to do—under the circumstances. Of course, Miss

Sackville fell readily into Bryce's trap. He was the sort of youth who loves to talk, especially in a blustering and mysterious fashion. And when Bryce, after treating him to an appetizer in the bar of the clubhouse, had suggested that they should lunch together and get him into a quiet corner of the dining room, he launched forth at once on the pertinent matter of the day.

"Heard all about this discovery of those missing Saxonsteade diamonds?" he asked as he and Bryce picked up their knives and forks. "Queer business that, isn't it? Of course, it's got to do with those murders?"

"Think so?" asked Bryce. "Can anybody think anything else?" said Sackville in his best dogmatic manner. "Why, the thing's plain. From what's been let out—not much, certainly, but enough—it's quite evident."

"What's your theory?" inquired Bryce. "My stepfather—knowing old bird he is, too!—sums the whole thing up to a nicely," answered Sackville. "That old chap, Braden, you know is in possession of that secret. He comes to Wrychester about it. But somebody else knows. That somebody gets rid of Braden. Why? So that the secret'll be known then only to one—the murderer! See! And why? Why?"

"Well, why?" repeated Bryce. "Don't see, so far."

"You must be dense, then," said Sackville with the lofty superiority of youth. "Because of the reward, of course!"

"Don't you know that there's been a standing offer—never withdrawn!—of five thousand pounds for news of those jewels?"

"No, I didn't," answered Bryce. "Fact, sir—pure fact," continued Sackville. "Now, five thousand, divided in two, is two thousand five hundred each. But five thousand, undivided, is—what?"

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE SURRENDER

At the first touch of Fedya's lips, something went up in Gwenda gave way completely, and she pressed her own lips to his in return. Maybe she would die the next minute, and this, this was all-wonderful! She swayed again, unsteadily, in his arms and he stroked her hair tenderly, as he kissed her and kissed her, till the breath seemed to leave her body. After a last embrace he led her back to the couch and placed her on it as he would have a baby. She seemed ridiculously babyish to him, too, as she lay, with crimson cheeks, looking up at him wonderingly, her bosom rising and falling tempestuously as she stared.

"Now, you know how it is with me, Gwenda, darling," he whispered, as he dropped beside her and took her hands in his own strong ones. "Now you know what I meant when I told you a few minutes ago about your not knowing yourself. You know, now. You love your Fedya. You need his love very much. But I can see that my little girl is still afraid. Do not tremble so, Gwenda, my dear. I have no badness in my heart for you. If you come to me and tell me what I wish to know that will be different, but now you are as safe, dearest, as if you were in your own room at home."

With a sigh of relief Gwenda smiled trustingly up at him. Then, as if compelled to do so, she put up one hand and stroked his cheek, wonderingly.

"I've wanted to do that for a long time, Fedya. Just touch your cheek—but I never dared. Tonight something snapped within me and this now Gwenda dares much, even though she is still afraid of much," she finished with a low laugh of happiness.

"You should see your eyes, my Gwenda; they are so glorious; they are telling me so much about yourself. More than you dream possible. And these eyes of yours could never lie."

"I feel as if I were drifting away on some great, white clouds, and the whole earth seems like a rosy bower, far, far below me. Many happy people are about me as I drift along, and they all understand me so well. It is quite a new world that I am in, Fedya, and the old world seems strangely small and grotesque now!"

"My beautiful Gwenda-woman," whispered Fedya, reverently, as he kissed one of her hands and pressed it to his heart.

"I feel so glad somehow at this new thing within me, for now I understand my Fedya so much better. And all these things that she tried to explain to me so often are understood by me now. Yes, indeed, every one. Life may still be mysterious, but many things in it are no longer mysteries to me," laughed Gwenda, pressing Fedya's hand as she grew enthusiastic about her own thoughts.

"Come, Fedya, do not be afraid of me. I know you, and I know all your goodness. And above all, I loved your kisses just now," she confessed.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children

In Use For Over 30 Years

Always bears the signature of Chas. H. Littleton

IT WORKED WONDERFULLY. Have you noticed the number of persons coughing this Spring, caused by an irritated condition in the chest, bronchial tubes or throat? This cough is as banished by a few doses of Edey's Honey and Tar. Mrs. Anna Stein, 410 West 1st Ave., Covington, Ky., writes: "Your cough medicine worked wonderfully on our little son. He is subject to bronchitis. The first doses helped him. Good for all sorts of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and grip coughs. Chas. J. Vorkamp, Main and McKibben Sts.—Adv."

Horlick's Malted Milk

A Nutritious Diet for All Ages. Quick Lunch at Home or Office. Avoid Imitations and Substitutes.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and quickly prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A dry, raw throat usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

COAL VALUES

The actual cost of fuel can only be determined by the amount of heat it gives forth. The standard for measuring coal values is the number of B. T. U. (British Thermal Units) in each pound of fuel.

For instance some coals now being offered only give 11,000 B. T. U.'s and 15% ash, while Pocahontas and similar coals produce 15,000 or more, with but 5% ash. All our coals are high in Heat Units in their class.

United States Commissioner of Education. Lima is the first city to start a night school under the federal law, in the state of Ohio. Cost of the school is borne, 40 percent by the state and 40 percent by the federal government. It means $10,000 to the Lima schools, according to Superintendent J. E. Collins. Lima leads in night vocational schools.

Prof. McMillan is much interested in the special attention given subnormal pupils here. He is an advocate of sub-normal schools and told teachers at Central High school they can do one-third more work when sub-normal students are taken from a class. He left Thursday for Toledo.

MUTT AND JEFF—HERE'S THE SQUAREST GAMBLER WE EVER HEARD OF—

SHORT SHAVINGS

When former Vice President Marshall was a struggling lawyer in Indiana, a book agent entered his office one morning and undertook to sell him a new edition of the Bible. Marshall interrupted to ask who the author was.

"Why, this is the Bible," explained the agent. "I am fully aware of that," answered Marshall. "But I ask you who is the author?"

"The agent explained he was offering the Bible."

"I know," said Marshall, "but who is the author?"

Gathering up his samples, the book agent retreated to the door, then with one hand on the knob, turned around and shouted, "You pin-headed fool and blithering idiot, it's the Bible."

Mother, have you noticed how changed father is lately? He's cross most all the time."

"He isn't cross, my dear; he's merely suffering from Incometaxitis, a disease which comes at this time of the year."

"I notice that Agnes doesn't go around boring other people with her ailments as she used to."

"No, she just a man who cured her completely."

"A doctor?"

"Oh, no. She was telling this man some of her symptoms when he remarked, 'It's strange how many of these things afflict people as they grow old.' Since then she has held her tongue about them."

Here Is a Fine Laxative For a Little Baby

Millions of Mothers find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin safe for infants.

WHAT young mother has not often asked herself the question, "What is the best thing I can give my baby for constipation?" It is a very important question, as constipation is the basis of most ills of infancy and childhood.

Give half a teaspoonful of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. You can obtain it at any drug store under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a mild, gentle medicine that children willingly take, and a bottle that costs only sixty cents is enough to last an average family several months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been used by millions of mothers, for the prescription has been sold in drug stores for thirty years. It is the same prescription Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who is now in his 52nd year, used in his extensive practice for half a century. It is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Last year eight million bottles were bought in drug stores.

You can make no mistake in giving Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to your baby.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 845-G, Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, Va. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a wife or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv
